

Human trafficking is a serious violation of human rights and is penalized by law.

It implies taking advantage of a situation of vulnerability (economic, emotional, gender, age, etc.). It affects the integrity and freedom of the victims, who can be transferred, isolated and disconnected from help.

Victims can be captured through false job offers, fraudulent romance, deceptions regarding work conditions, or through violence and/or threats.

The crime of trafficking for the purpose of exploitation mainly affects women and dissidents; while trafficking for the purpose of labor exploitation mainly affects migrants, and can occur in urban (textile workshops or domestic work) and rural areas (frequently in seasonal harvests).

Recommendations

To Prevent Human Trafficking

If you are looking for a job, pay attention if:

- They promise you a big change in your life or a lot of money in a short time.
- They do not require any previous experience or qualification.
- The data and/or place of contact are not clear, nor what is the activity to be carried out.
- They ask you to move to another city, province or Country and offer to pay the tickets in advance.
- They demand that you make up your mind mediately.

If you go to a job interview, it is important that you:

- Find out about your labor rights.
- Let your acquaintances know who and where you are going to be with.
- Do not appear alone in a private home or public place (other than an institution or company).
- Ask for information about the activity you are going to carry out and look for references about your future job and employer.

If you travel for work:

- Find out where and how is the destination.
- Do not give your documentation to anyone.
- Tell someone you know where you are going to stay.

If you have minor children:

- Save addresses and phone numbers of your friends and colleagues.
- If you are offered a job or study in another country, find out what it is about.

If you use the internet:

- Be careful with the information you display.
- Your name, age, email, photos and videos are personal data.
- Do not count who you live with or where or what your way of life is like.
- Remember that the information you provide on social networks is not innocent. Don't do online what you wouldn't do on the street.

Grooming

It is the action of an adult who communicates with a child or adolescent through digital tools (social networks, chats, online games, emails) through a false identity, transferring images, videos or intimate information, in order to commit any crime against their sexual integrity.

Suggestions for mothers and fathers:

- Regularly monitor the use of the Internet by minors.
- Install computers in common areas and set hours for internet use.
- Educate on the proper use of the Web camera and sending content.
