

Table with multiple columns and rows, containing numerical data and text labels. The table is organized into several sections, likely representing different categories or time periods. Each row contains a series of numbers, some of which are formatted with commas as thousands separators. The text labels are positioned to the left of the numerical columns.

